

Grade classification and price of solar panels

Overview

What is the grading system for solar panels?

The grading system goes A for the best, B for visually defective panels but meet performance benchmarks, C for visually and performatively defective solar panels, and D for broken solar panels. Most manufacturers and distributors only sell grade A and B solar panels, scrapping C solar panels and recycling D solar panels.

Are Grade A solar panels a good choice?

Ultimately, it comes down to this: Grade A solar panels have no visual defects and meet performance standards. Grade B solar panels have some visible defects but meet performance standards. Grade C solar panels have visual defects and do not meet performance standards. Grade D solar panels are unusable, and entirely broken.

What is a Grade B solar panel?

Grade B solar panels have visual defects but meet performance specifications. These solar panels are less common than grade A solar panels but are typically available from manufacturers upon request. Most manufacturers keep these panels for testing purposes but sell them with warranties like grade A solar panels.

What kind of solar panel is called a Grade?

The grades of solar panels can be divided into A grade, B grade, C grade and D grade, and A grade solar modules can be divided into two grades, A+ and A-. The cost gap is also very large. So what kind of solar panel is called A grade, and what kind of solar panel is called D grade?

Here is a brief introduction for you:
